Thunder showers which brought a temporary relief last night and which are predicted again tonight, are just "teasers" between heat onslaughts, with no permanent relief in sight weather forecasters indicated today

Mansfield sweltered under a temperature of 94 degrees yesterday afternoon, and hopeful eyes turned to storm clouds that came up early in the evening and gave a fairly heavy shower late last night. They served to bring the temperature down to 74 about midnight, but the climb upward began this morning again, when the mercury fairly raced up 10 degrees between 8 30 and 11.30 going from 79 to 89.

Weather forecasters sent out reports today that thundershowers would only add to the stuteness of the heat by intensifying the humidity. Today is the fifth consecutive day that the nation has suffered from over-90 temperatures.

Lorain claimed the highest temperature in Ohio yesterday when the thermometer at the coast guard station registered 102 degrees There is no official weather bureau in Lorain

The cutter Perseus, normally based at San Diego, was believed to have been dispatched to the Bering sea especially to determine the extent of reported Soviet military preparations.

Pan-American Nations Settle Down to Find Common Safeguards; Argentine Balks at Foreign Trade Threat.

BULLETIN

HAVANA—(AP)—The United States delegation placed before the Pan-American chancellors' conference today a project designed to set up machinery immediately for an inter-American mandate over European possessions in this hemisphere, to become effective in case such possessions were threatened with a change of sovereignty.

By J. C. STARK

HAVANA—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States was elected president of the peace commission today as the meeting of representatives of the 21 American republics plunged into serious committee work

United States security and economic proposals to safeguard the western hemisphere were translated into resolutions as the delegates began their task of composing clashing viewpoints

Besides the peace commission the neutrality and economic commissions began deliberations

Already apparent was Argentina's hesitating attitude toward broad commitments which might affect her future trade relations with Europe and which she feared might result in losses which would not be offset on concrete economic benefits from the United States or other American republics

Secretary Hull scarcely had finished his broad outline of defense and economic plans sponsored by the United States late yesterday when Argentine delegates Leopoldo Melo warned the Pan American gathering against rushing into actions based on Welles Hits Assimilation of Baltic Nations, Warns of Such a Move In West.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States government today denounced the pending absorption by Russia of the three small Baltic countries of Latvia Lithuania and Estonia

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, at a press conference, also warned that any attempt on the part of any foreign government to interfere "directly or indirectly" in the operations of any government in the Americas would be "unanimously opposed by all American people."

Concerning the Soviet move in the Baltic area, Welles said that the United States would continue to recognize the diplomatic missions of the three Baltic countries in Washington as the legal representatives of governments under duress.

The warning against interference in Latin-America was directed at Spain which recently broke off diplomatic relations with Chile as a result of a long-standing controversy which had its roots in the Spanish civil war.

In a formal statement outlining the American views on the absorption by the Soviet of the Baltic countries, Welles said:

"During the past few days the devious processes whereunder the political independence and territorial integrity of the three small Baltic republics—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—were to be deliberately annihilated by one of their more powerful neighbors have

'Drinking Drivers' Receive Warning They'll Have To Pay

Municipal Judge G E Kalbfleisch served notice on automobile drivers today that where evidence of "drinking while driving" was shown, even though not enough to become intoxicated they could expect a "minimum fine of $25" regardless of the charge cited on

The court cracked down this morning and fined an Ashland man $25 and costs after he was convicted on a charge of unsafe driving

State highway patrolmen accused Donald Emmons Ashland with operating his car 84 miles an hour on U S route 42 north of Mansfield, through Saturday night traffic. They said they arrested him after he stopped at a tavern north of the city to get "another beer"

Emmons denied that he was driving at the rate charged but admitted that he had consumed a "couple of beers"

"This court will not tolerate drinking while driving," Judge Kalbfleisch asserted. "When cases come into the court and show evidence of drinking there will be a minimum fine of $25."

The court flayed the conduct of drivers, asserting that a woman previously arraigned before him for speeding had given the alibi that another driver had endangered the lives of her own children by speeding on the street where she lived

"This woman thought that because one driver violated the law it was perfectly right for her to do the same thing, only in another section of the city," Judge Kalbfleisch said

"It seems that every automobile driver thinks there should be some rule of conduct especially fitted for him"

Another driver cited before the court for leaving the scene of an accident was given a 90 day jail sentence and a $75 fine for unsafe driving

He was Dwight Stahl, 755 Hedges street who pleaded guilty to both charges

Officers said Stahl's driving license had been revoked for one year early in May He was ar-

Increased Taxes Called For to Help Meet Nation's Need of 12 Billions a Year.

Churchill Declines to Say If RAF Will Bomb Berlin In Case of Raid on London.

BULLETIN

LONDON —(AP)— Great Britain's leadership increased the nation's income tax today to an unprecedented rate of 42½ per cent to help meet an emergency war budget equalling $13,868,000,000.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood called for vastly increased taxes today in presenting an emergency war budget to meet estimated expenditures approaching about $12,000 000,000 a year

Sir Kingsley keeper of Britain's war chest said the nation's income for the fiscal year ending July 1 1941, would be about $4 936-000,000 and that the deficit to be made up by savings or other means would be $3,732,000,000.

It is plain, the little 59-year-old chancellor said, that Britain's war expenditures for the year will be considerably greater than the estimate of $8 000,000,000 made in April with the rate of expenditures now $228,000,000 a week.

Prime Minister Churchill declined to commit Britain today on whether she would make re-

'Grand Scale' Operations Against Foe To Begin, Berlin Declares, Calls Churchill 'Grave Digger' of The British Empire.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN—Without even awaiting Prime Minister Winston Churchill's scheduled address to the house of commons, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today accepted Britain's challenge as expressed by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax in a radio address last night.

Clearly indicating that the long-awaited onslaught against the British Isles would begin momentarily, an official Wilhelmstrasse spokesman announced: "It is war to the bitter end!"

The speech of Lord Halifax rejecting Hitler's "final offer of peace" was officially recognized as Britain's formal answer.

Therefore, even in advance of Churchill's address to the house of commons, Germany announced that the politico-diplomatic stage of the war ushered in with signing of the Franco-German armistice at Compiegne had come to an end.

"Grand-scale military warfare against England now begins," a spokesman said.

Bitterly condemning both Churchill and Halifax as "gravediggers of the British Empire," this official declared:

"The lid is off and the dice have fallen.

"Halifax outdid himself in negative hypocrisy. He has called forth the necessity of another form of procedure than we have hitherto followed, namely, an appeal to reason.

"Since he will not listen to the fuehrer we must conclude that it does not matter to him and his clique whether or not the British Empire is destroyed.

"The future will show who was right.

"If Halifax thinks he can rely on statesmen of other lands (the foreign secretary had spoken of 'American prayers for our victory') we leave that to him. History will show whether or not England's destiny should have been tossed away on a basis of philosophical, religious phrases, or should have been decided by common sense

"The reich no longer has anything to say except that from the German side now will come only one answer which lies beyond the scope of messages or words.

"Germany knows how to settle, not only with fighting people but with praying people as well."

The spokesman, who obviously was passing on the decision of the highest quarters, called attention to the recent spurt of British Royal Air Force activity against allegedly non-military objectives. In this connection, Berlin news-

THREAT: Japs In China Hint At 'Definite' Shanghai Action

By Associated Press

SHANGHAI —"Definite action to maintain order in the international settlement of Shanghai" was threatened today by the Central China Daily News mouthpiece of Wang Ching-Wei's Japanese-sponsored government for China

It said three minimum requirements would have to be met

1 The handing over by the Shanghai municipal council governing body of the international settlement of all Chinese whose arrests are ordered by Wang's Nanking regime

2 Deportation of foreigners whose banishment is ordered by Nanking

3 Publication of all reasons for evil published in the settlement by foreigners because these newspapers encourage assassination.

Unless these requirements are met, the newspaper said, the Nanking government will "take over police rights of the settlement and will preserve order directly."

It also made defiant gestures toward the United States which it said would not be able to preserve the status quo in the settlement

The Chinese-Japanese peace axis is established," it said. "Gen-

By MME QUI VIVE

Old-fashioned people have a saying that's worth thinking about: "A horse and a woman should be well harnessed." In the days of the double-turreted, steel-riveted corset, women were harnessed. They wore saddles of heavy fabric and steel splints and when they took them off at night they heaved a great sigh of relief. These rib compressing cages were no help to health. Breathing was shallow, the inner-sides were at a disadvantage, couldn't function normally.

During World War number 1, the younger generation rebelled against tight lacing. Corset manufacturers got the jitters. Then there was the usual turn-about and foundation garments were designed.

The fact remains that there are too many slouchy looking femmes at the present time.

It is possible for a woman to grow her own corsets, of strong, resilient fibers. It is better than any corset she can buy.

It is surprising how many young women have let their figures go to seed, because of bad posture. They're too lazy to stand up straight. They see a picture of a movie siren in which she assumes an arty pose, so they do likewise. Artiness is interesting on the stage or screen, but it doesn't pay any dividends when practiced by you or me or the woman next door. One's figure should be alive and alert, one's muscles strong and resilient. Let the shoulders fall forward, the chest contract and the tummy plops out.

Shops offer an infinite variety of tricky corselettes that will anchor down the bulges, and develop the svelte shape. One must not be selected casually.

Through exercise, continued daily, the muscles from the ribs down to the hip bones can be tightened and strengthened. If they are in normal condition, if the body does not carry any obese upholstery, there is no need of any kind of restrictions.

To tone the mid section do bending exercises night and morning. Lift the hands high in the air, bend from side to side. Hands on hips, bend forward and back. Lie on the floor, lift and lower the legs slowly. Hands on a line with the shoulder, pivot at the waistline. Don't be lazy about it. With every movement see that there is a good touch of old muscle pull.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAVOR THE NO TRUMP

Bidding No Trump with a worthless singleton or doubleton is usually conceded to be bad business. Even having a singleton in your partner's suit is risky, as it gives you only one chance to lead toward whatever tenaces it may contain. But leaving in a No Trump contract bid by your partner is an entirely different proposition. Now singletons, and even voids, should not worry you. In effect, they are assets, because it is their shortness which makes possible your longest suits, whereby the declarer may bring in some small-card tricks. Consequently, your partner's No Trump contract usually should be favored over a minor suit one, if your hand has a worthy amount of high-card strength in it.

3 NT	Pass	4 ♦	Pass

Even before seeing the dummy, South was upset at his partner's bidding of diamonds after the No Trump game call, in view of the fact that North did not use it to go on to slam.

Bidding such as South did showed that he lacked enough power for the strong No Trumps being used by the pair for opening bids, and so bid his suit. When he found enough strength in his partner's hand for the jump response, he then showed his partner that he had protection in all suits by bidding 3-No Trump.

North should have passed that because nine tricks are easier to take than eight in Hearts doubled so game would have been a set against any lead, and an overtrick if West led a spade. As it was, the 5 Diamonds contract was set by three spade tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Harry knew us, don't you think?" Lillian murmured to me, but Dicky's sharp ears heard her. With the knowledge that Leslie's men were engaged with their cars, and that we would not encounter them on the way home, he had not crouched on the floor of the car again, but had taken a seat just back of us.

"Did he know you, baby?" Dicky echoed. "Did he ever? Don't you know that no matter how much mud you two rub into your faces, or how many coats and hats of Jim's you put on, the eyes of love are not deceived. You may have fooled Jack Leslie, but not your ever loving husbands."

"Suppose one eye-loving husband should 'go into the silence' for a few minutes," Lillian suggested cornedly. "It would be a great rest to our nerves."

"Not to mine," I declared gaily, for I understood and shared Dicky's mood.

"I like to hear him talk," I added, and Lillian chuckled reluctantly.

"I'll bet you'd have a lovely time in an insane asylum during a talking period," she retorted, and said no more until we turned in at the farmhouse gate. But Dicky and I kept up an inconsequential but gay chatter all the way, although I did not turn my head nor take my eyes from the road along which I was driving.

Harry Underwood drew up his car at one side of the farmhouse gate, and waited for me to drive through. Dicky gave a direction to me palpably for the hearing of the guards.

"Drive around to the kitchen door, Bill," he said, and I obeyed him. When we reached the door, Dicky sprang to the ground, and gave a hurried direction to the guard standing within sight of the door which sent him scurrying away. As soon as he was out of sight, Dicky literally barked an order to Lillian and me.

"Into the house as quick as you can move," he said. "Take Katie up the back stairs to her rooms, and have her get that mud off your faces. There's no need of anybody but Katie knowing what you've been up to. And afterward go down to Lil's room and I'll let you know what Dad wants as soon as I find out myself."

"Jim don't let Katie screech when she sees Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Underwood. They have mud all over their faces. Have her take them upstairs to her bathroom before anybody sees them.

We were at the door and inside it before Jim, with his slow tempo, began to answer. Dicky shut the door quickly behind us, and Katie, who had heard Dicky's injunction did not screech, but sinking into a chair, fairly rocked with uncontrollable laughter.

"Oh—h—" she gurgled when the first paroxysm had passed. "Me, I no kin help dees. You, you see yourselves yet? Oh! you look so foony!" and she was off again. But to do her credit, she kept her laughter on a low key, and Lillian and I were willing to wait until her mirth had subsided.

"Katie!" Jim called across the kitchen. "Stop that this second, and do what Mr. Graham told you to. Haven't you any shame or any sense?"

NEW BEGONIAS FROM OLD LEAVES

Rex begonias are easily rooted from leaf cuttings from an old plant. The continued, moist atmosphere of a Wardian case or a bell jar and slight bottom heat will encourage rooting.

One method of growing new begonias from old leaves entails the placing of an entire mature leaf right side up on moist sand. The veins should be cut in a number of places, as shown in Figure 1 of the accompanying drawing. The leaf can be held down on the moist sand by pegging it with hairpins or placing small stones along its edges. A new plant will soon sprout from each cut in a vein.

Another method of propagating is to cut a mature leaf into sections, as shown in Figure 2. Each cut section must retain a portion of the fleshy base of the leaf. These cut pieces of leaf are then planted in an upright position in moist sand. New shoots and roots will soon put in an appearance.

When several leaves and a good bunch of roots have developed from these leaf cuttings, the new plants can be severed frm the old leaf and potted. Use small pots (2½inch size.) Later the new plants can be transferred to larger pots. If you would have bushy plants pinch back some two-thirds of the growth.

MIDAS TOUCH

American gloves have gone back on to the gold standard! One of the newest decorative effects is the touch of gold trimming on soft-as-velvet black doe, suede or mocha gloves. Maybe it's a lacing, or a tassel or an applique, but whatever form it takes, the gold-on-black idea is a stunning glove to take to a tea or cocktail party.

Army Seeks Check on Export of American Warplanes

SAFEGUARD FOR U. S. DEFENSE PLANS ASKED

Appeal Made to Knudsen, Who Agrees to Co-ordination, But Sees No Snag.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The army has asked William S. Knudsen, production chief of the national defense council, to prevent new British orders for about 1,200 American airplanes from interfering with production for this country's defense program, the United Press learned today.

The request for coordination of the British orders with this country's demands was made by army air corps officials who feared that the new orders might tie up production channels. It was the first time such a request has been taken directly to the defense council.

Knudsen's associates said he expressed willingness to undertake coordination of the orders and that he believed no serious difficulties would be encountered.

The British order was issued by Arthur B. Purvis, chief of the British purchasing commission, and sent to American authorities who must approve the release of war supplies to belligerent powers. Detailed cost estimates and a break-down of types of planes were not disclosed. Previous purchases by the French and British since before the beginning of the war total about 7,000 American planes at a cost of about $1,200,000,000 (B).

The British decision to order more planes came while congress is considering President Roosevelt's request for $1,800,000,000 (B) to expand the army and navy. The bill would provide 15,000 more planes for the army and 4,000 more for the navy.

Responsible quarters described the attitude of army air corps officials as follows: they believe that the British orders can be "dovetailed" with army orders to the satisfaction of both parties, but that there is a possibility of clogged production facilities if careful arrangements for coordination are not made.

Revelation that the British are ordering more planes was considered significant here inasmuch as they cannot expect delivery for at least a year.

Willkie Leaves to Visit 3 Famous Western Rodeos

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(U.P.)—Wendell L. Willkie, having completed plans for his formal acceptance of the Republican presidential nomination, left by airplane early today to attend three of the west's famous rodeos.

Willkie will fly to Denver and take a special train along with several hundred others to an old frontier rally at Cheyenne. En route, he will make at least two informal speeches at Brighten and Greeley, Colo.

After the Cheyenne holiday, he will fly to Salt Lake City tonight, take part in a parade tomorrow, to go to Ogden, Utah, and return to Colorado Springs early Thursday. During the trip, he will see rodeos at Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and Ogden. Mrs. Willkie will accompany her husband.

He set Aug. 17 as the date on which he will accept the nomination at Elwood, Ind., his home town. There will be a brief preliminary ceremony on the steps of Elwood high school. The main program will be in Callaway's park, which Willkie remembers from his boyhood days as Joe Daharity's woods, site of the "ole swimming hole."

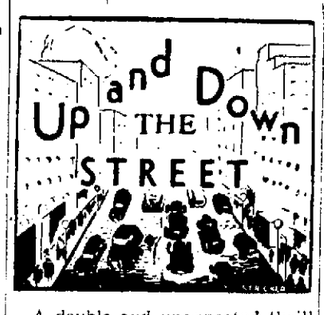
Congress Scans Export-Import Proposal

Up and Down THE STREET



A double and unexpected thrill was experienced last week by Marjorie Fonkalsrud, 508 Forest avenue, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. O. Fonkalsrud, who is visiting her brother, Leslie in Billings, Mont. On the evening of July 15, Miss Fonkalsrud attended a Billings theater from where the Dr. I. Q. network radio program was being broadcast. She was asked to take part in the show, and was awarded $12 when she gave the correct answer to the question she was asked.

How old does a woman have to be before she is sensitive about her age? You'll have to ask some older than the girls who graduated from high school 50 years ago. Of a class of 22, only six have died in 50 years. Twelve of them, all women, met one day last week for a reunion and to talk over their high school days when the school was in the building that is now Carpenter school. There were only two boys in the class, but they were not at the reunion. Some one in the class wanted to have a group picture taken for the newspaper and for themselves. But two of them held out against it, because they didn't want anyone to know they were old enough to have graduated 50 years ago, and so the picture was not taken.

Eleven youngsters from Boy Scout Troop No. 9 didn't let the heat bother their work yesterday. The Mansfield lads, under the direction of Carl Stough, scoutmaster, spent all day raking the stones off the six new tennis courts at Maple Lake park. The park association, anxious to get the courts in shape for play this year, asked for help in readying the courts and the youths were among the first to offer their services. Last week members of the association put the backstops in place.

WHAT TO DO?

Marion Has Parking Meters, No Use For Them.

MARION—(AP)—Marion today owned 100 parking meters—but had no use for them.

The board of control bought the meters 10 days ago but council last night voted down legislation authorizing installation and operation of the devices.

Councilmen objected because the board of control took bids only on automatic type meters, refusing to consider less expensive types on which the customer has to operate a lever as well as deposit a coin.

Mayor R. C. Snare and Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell, making up the board of control, are defending their choice of automatic meters, asserting no manual type meters are in use any place in Ohio.

CITY RECEIVES $22,928 FUND

Liquor License Revenue and Utility Excise Taxes In New Settlement.

City coffers were enriched $22,928 today from funds received from two different sources.

The city's general fund was increased $11,503, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said, from a state-wide distribution of liquor license money, and public utility excise sinking fund fees.

The additional amount included $11,425 in gasoline tax funds distributed by the state. It boosted to $34,275 the total amount received by the city from that source so far this year.

The funds are used solely for construction and maintenance of city streets and traffic lights. 20 per cent allowed for street cleaning and traffic light maintenance. A maximum of 80 per cent of the remainder is allowed for new construction and maintenance of main thorough fares only.

Of the amount earmarked for the general operating funds, $10,065 represented liquor license fees while $1,438 in public excise taxes received from the county will be used strictly for retirement of relief debt, Kelley said.

Drivers of both cars, Adsen, 35, and 18-year-old Roy Smith, are in fair condition, attendants said.

CITY HALL EMPLOYES STARTING BALLYHOO FOR OUTDOOR PICNIC

Nobody ever described Mansfield's City hall as a dull place—and just to make sure that all work and no play on the part of the city workers doesn't allow the place to drop into the doldrums during the summer, they're making plans for an outdoor picnic.

Although the date has not yet been selected nor the place for the frolic decided upon, its already being ballyhooed as a "gigantic" affair by the committee drafted to complete the plans.

They hope to gather together all city workers employed at the municipal building for an afternoon and evening outing near the city.

Mayor William J. Locke and Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton have approved the affair and it has been indicated that employes will be given part of a day to attend the outing.

Heading the committee on arrangements is Municipal Court Clerk Ralph A. Hughes, general chairman. He will be assisted by Detective Lee J. Remy, Capt. Paul Young of the fire department, Charles O. Anglin, water department bookkeeper, Margery Palmer, head of the visiting nurses' association, and Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr.

The committee plans an early meeting to set the date and place for the picnic.

BOUND OVER

Defendant Held to Jury In Missing Pocketbook Case.

Clinton Gipe, 48, of near Rome, was held in the county jail today awaiting grand jury action on a charge of grand larceny.

Waiving preliminary hearing when arraigned in municipal court this morning, Gipe, pleaded innocent and was bound over. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fixed bond at a $1,000.

He was arrested a week ago on a warrant signed by Mrs. Jessie Elrod, 302 High street, who accused Gipe with the theft of her purse which she claims to have lost at a home where both were visiting. She said the pocketbook contained $41.50.

OPPOSITION TO PRESIDENT ON MEASURE LOOMS

House Banking Group Member Says It Amounts to Trying to Buy Co-operation.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's latest move toward western hemisphere solidarity—a request to more than triple funds of the import-export bank—will receive careful scrutiny and perhaps outright opposition of congressional Republicans, they indicated today.

Rep. Crawford (R) Michigan, member of the house banking and currency committee which must pass on the request, openly charged it with being "an attempt to buy promises of compliance from Latin American countries."

"If you could buy actual compliance to bring about the solidarity of this hemisphere it might be all right—but all you're getting is promises," Crawford added.

The request came in the form of a special message from Mr. Roosevelt to congress. Shortly after it was read, Chairman Steagall (D) Ala., of the banking committee, introduced a bill complying with the presidential request.

Under terms of Steagall's measure, the import-export bank's funds would be increased from the present $200,000,000 to $700,000,000; the existing proviso which limits loans to any one country to $20,000,000 would be lifted as far as countries in this hemisphere are concerned, and the operations of the bank would be extended from June 30, 1941 to Jan. 22, 1947.

The new funds, which the president declared are needed to facilitate trade and to maintain economic stability in the new world, would be made available through the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

2 MORE LOOTED

Cash Obtained In Burglary Of Mansfield Homes.

Police today were investigating the burglary of two more residences during the past 24 hours.

The robberies bring to 25 the number of house breakings reported to police in recent weeks.

At the residence of Coral Logan, 55½ East Third street, a thief entered the apartment through an open window and stole a purse containing $11. Police said a fire escape led to the window.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Diary.

According to the unofficial Broadway statisticians, such lethargy has descended upon the season that only three clubs are really coining money (the Rainbow Room, they say, the Kit Kat and the Diamond Horseshoe), but the Beachcomber, the Hurricane and LaConga seem to be doing pretty well, the Cafe Pierre turns customers away, and the Stork Club looks anything but empty around midnight.

A lot of the faces around the ringside are unfamiliar, true—but its the unfamiliar faces that pay the cover charge.

There was nothing unfamiliar about the face under the enormous red straw hat in the Rainbow Room Saturday night. It was Patricia ("The Little Foxes") Collinge's face, and it was wreathed with merriment at the antics of the Three Pitchmen who perform in the floor show. Miss Collinge was with her husband, and she liked George Lloyd's neurotic version of a Bow With a String so well that when the entertainment was over she rushed outside to congratulate him.

Olga Baclanova, who used to be the beautiful spy (you knew she was a spy the minute she came on the screen) in the silent films, was in the Rainbow Grill, across the hall, with a large party, and she couldn't have looked less sinister in a grey chiffon dress with a red hat, a red handbag and red gloves. (The town is full of belles accented with red.)

Dr. Eugene Marcovici, that indefatigable waltzer, dropped in to call for pretty Beverly Whitney, who sings in the Grill; he took her over to the Starlight Roof for a change of scenery and a couple of dances, and brought her back in time for the midnight show.

Rudy Vallee was floating around with a very beautiful brunet, but then it is hardly news when this happens, and Eddie LeBaron drifted in alone, as his wife, Burnice, is visiting her parents in California. Eddie, who has just finished an engagement in Dallas, was raving to one and all that the Dallas women are the prettiest and best dressed he has ever seen. "They make the Hollywood women look very dull," he said.

LaConga, the same evening, held a cosmopolitan conglomeration. Jimmy Roosevelt sat with Jack Robbins, the music publisher, looking amused at the gyrations of the conga line. Ginger Rogers sat with her mother, Lela, and George Ballanchcine and Zorina, looking as if she were having fun, and on the other side of the room was Macoco, the fabulous Argentine playboy, playing host to a large party which included his usual array of glittering blonds. To round out the assemblage, there was also a couple of strip-tease queens in the room—Georgia Sothern and Maxine DeShong, who were just learning to rhumba.

It is like old times to see Prince Mike Romanoff around in the cafes again, full of high spirits and always ready for a bit of semi-royal fun. He was over at Ben Marden's Riviera Sunday night, and when the gentlemen in the audience were invited to come up on the stage and dance with any of the Chester Hale girls, Mike couldn't resist the offer. He clambered up on the stage with Jockey Sammy Renick, and the two of them picked for partners Dora Brantly and Harriet Bennet, the tallest girls in the show.

The Algonquin, which is always as busy as a B-picture producer during lunch and dinner, inaugurated cocktail sessions the other afternoon and drew dozens of Significant Names. Jimmy Walker was on hand, and the playwright Sam Raphaelson, rhymer Ogden Nash, Congressman Bruce Barton, author Carl Van Vechten, artist James Montgomery Flagg, actress Flora Robson, make-up man Pere Westmore, and comic Jack Pearl.

It was Pearl who spotted one of the more erratic literary lights across the room and opined:

"His books are either very good or very bad. In some you can't wait to get to the end—and in others you can't wait to get to the author."

Sometimes I wonder if anyone has ever figured out how many millions of dollars worth of talent has performed free in the floor show at Jack White? The other evening, for instance, Burgess Meredith (I thought you were in Hollywood, Buzz?), Eddie Downing, Carol Bruce and Joe Penner were only a slight example of what goes on in the zany confines of that Swing Street madhouse. These celebrated guests popped up in blackouts, as a choral group, as stooges with wigs, mustaches and odd attire—and finally they all joined in a "Presidential Parade" for their candidate, waiter-stooge Doc Lee. The audience was practically in hysterics—I mean that part of the audience that wasn't in the floor show.

The St. Regis Roof, another favorite summer spot for visitors and the regulars, is very gay these evenings.

Lady Mendl, knee deep in her seventies, looked positively kittenish in a black hair bow, and Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, another kittenish character, looked as though he might be on a quintuplet diet: he ordered two rounds of milk.

Maestro Hal Saunders, who has developed into a bandstand story spinner, was amusing the customers with the tale of a general who had an important message to dispatch by carrier pigeon, but couldn't find any paper to write it on, or anything to write the message with.

The pigeon watched the general get into a stew over the predicament.

"Why not," the pigeon finally said, "just whisper it to me?"

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This town may have its back to the wall, but there's life in the old girl yet. There's life when a plane load of stars, en route to Houston for a Red Cross benefit, can attract crowds to the Albuquerque (N. M.) airport at 4 a. m. just to see the scintillants briefly. . . . "They Knew What They Want-ed" gives Charles Laughton an unusual opportunity to demonstrate his athletic prowess. He plays a California grape-grower of Italian origin who has won Carole Lombard via correspondence courtship. When the future bride arrives on the ranch they throw a "fiesta" to celebrate. Charles, to show off for Carole, is supposed to do a one-hand vault over the festive table. He tries it once, twice, three, but can't hit his bulk with conviction and Director Garson Kanin turns the job over to a double.

The plot calls for Laughton, in this display of derring-do, to be injured seriously when he tries a stunt on the house roof. They shoot the scene, with Laughton teetering on the ridgepole, slipping and disappearing down the other side. The crowd ad libs as instructed, and it looks like a good take. But Kanin, after consultation with the sound man, calls for another.

"That was fine," he says, "except that somebody forgot about the Hays office. This time, don't let me hear anybody yell 'Hell's bells, he's busted his neck!'"

Errors, Walks Enable Lima to Trip Braves, 9-6

Mansfield Pitching, Defense Crumbles In Eighth As Pandas Tally Five Times.

By CHARLES MARTIN

OUR BRAVES are one more game out of first place in the Ohio State league championship race today.

Just when it looked like the Warriors might shoe down the Lima Pandas' advantage—two things happened—the defense crumbled and the pitching failed—and the club dropped a 9 to 6 decision to the Pandas under the lights at the fairground before 900 fans.

Mansfield was enjoying a 6 to 2 lead going into the seventh but Lima dented the plate twice in that frame and then shoved over five markers in the eighth to finish on top.

Tony Angaran is expected to get the call to face Fostoria at Fostoria tonight and Don Arnold may be Manager Dewey Stovers choice to toe the rubber against the Red Birds at the Fairground Wednesday night.

The way the Braves were performing in the early innings last night it looked like an easy triumph—then everything happened.

Rex Benton started on the mound and although he was wild he might have finished all right if errors and walks hadn't given the Pandas four runs before he left the hill.

Pilot Stover sent George Lauria in to relieve Rex with one down in the seventh and he retired the side without further trouble. The 6 to 4 lead still appeared sufficient going into the eighth.

But in that frame George walked three men, gave up a single and he and his teammates committed three boobies to allow Lima to tally five times. George got by the ninth in fine shape but the Braves couldn't do much with the slants of Crum, a second baseman, who worked on the mound.

Mansfield was behind 2 to 1, in the fifth when the team scored three times to take an advantage it held until the eighth. The Braves added a pair of markers in the sixth.

Benton limited the Pandas to five hits and issued a like number of walks. Lauria was credited with one strikeout and gave up the only hits on balls.

Meanwhile Crum had things pretty well under control. He walked nine of the Braves and gave the club nine hits. He ran into trouble in the ninth as a walk and a single plated two men on the path and the Pandas rushed Ed Bisson, relief southpaw in to handle the situation.

Harry Seybert was the batting star last night. He pounded out three doubles in four trips to the plate and sent three runs home. Herb Woodien added a double and single to the attack, and Howard Beals secured two singles.

It was a bad night for the Braves in the field with the club being charged with six misplays. Lima had three errors but they didn't cause much trouble.

Manager Lefty Seiffemire of the Pandas was chased from the ball park in the seventh for protesting a decision made by Carbart at first base. The Lima boss held the game up several minutes and after Carbart ordered him to the showers he still hung near the edge of the field and the umpires stopped the game a couple of times until Seiffemire finally went into the club house.

Clevelander Ranked No. 1 In Qualifier

Burke Paces Ohioans In P. G. A. Tourney.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A three-under-par 141 ranked Billy Burke of Cleveland, former national open champion, as the foremost contender today among seven Ohio golfers for the National Professional Golf association tournament at Hershey, Pa., Aug. 26 to Sept. 1.

Facing a field of 20 in the northern Ohio qualifier yesterday, Burke had a par 72 for the first 18 holes at Sleepy Hollow golf course here, then lopped three strokes from this total on the final 18.

Sub-par scores also decided the second and third places in the northern Ohio competition. Al Espinosa of Akron Portage club finishing only one stroke behind Burke with a 71-71—142 and Reggie Myles of Cleveland carding 71-72—143. The fourth place went to Herman Keiser, assistant to Espinosa at Akron Portage, who had a 71-72—146.

Three Dayton golfers led by Tony Penna, tournament veteran won the three berths filled by qualifying play at Columbus Country club.

Penna turned in a brace of par 72's, while Al and Gene Marchi won the other places with scores of 72-74—146 and 73-76—149, respectively.

Other 36-hole scores in the Columbus qualifier included W. Bowman Chillicothe, 78-87—165.

Tribe Faces Athletics Under Lights Tonight

CLEVELAND —(UP)— The Cleveland Indians will work out against the cellar-inhabiting Philadelphia Athletics tonight to see if the Tribe has really pulled out of that zooming nosedive which they effected on their recent eastern invasion.

* * *

Upon the shoulders of 27-year-old Al Milnar lies the responsibility of proving that much-lamented six-game losing streak last week was but a momentary faltering.

Southpaw Al has done a bit of faltering himself, dropping his last two games. However, his 12 triumphs against only five defeats places him second among the regulars in the Tribe staff's pitching percentages and he ranks third among the American league hurlers.

Al's opposition is scheduled to be Johnny Babich who has lost two of the nine contests which Oscar Vitt's men have taken from the Athletics this season. One of those victories was Milnar's 4-0 shutout.

Back for a long home stand, many of their games including the Indians have transferred tonight's contest to the stadium. Stadium games include the Red Sox and the Yankee series. Thus, the Tribesmen, who used to shun the big lot, now hope to curb the heavy hitters from other clubs.

* * *

Although the Indians are worried about Detroit's one and a half game lead in the league, they figure that two more potent enemies are in the offing. The Red Sox are five games from the front and the Yankees are in the fourth spot seven games off the leaders' pace.

First Presbyterians Hand 1st Lutherans 14-4 Defeat

CELLAR-COASTING First Presbyterian softball club handed the loop-leading First Lutherans their first defeat of the season yesterday to the tune of 14 to 4 at North Lake park.

Until last night's fracas the Lutherans had piled up a four-game winning streak with no losses. The First Presbyterians scored their first victory of the season, after having lost four straight decisions.

Collins was on the mound for the winners permitting the league-leaders only four hits. Wolf, First Lutheran hurler, allowed the cellarites 17 safeties.

Burns, Presbyterian first baseman, led the hitting with four hits out of five trips to the batter's box. Burns netted a double and three singles. Moorehead of the Presbys shared honors with Burns by getting a triple and two singles out of four trips.

* * *

The Congregationals scored a 6 to 3 victory over the First Methodists to bring their total to four wins and one defeat, the same record now held by the Lutherans. Bush was on the mound for the Congregationals, while Hazelett toed the rubber for the First Methodists.

Wreckers Trip Kent Markets At Columbus

Mansfield Softball Combine Scores 3-1 Win.

With Jimmy Fullager hurling three-hit ball and Harry Ross and Al Suckler supplying the batting power, the Mansfield Wrecking company softball team marked up an impressive 3 to 1 victory over the Kent State Markets at the State Hospital field under the lights at Columbus last night.

Manager Nick Wagner's Wreckers fell behind by a 1 to 0 count in the second frame and then tied the score in the third.

* * *

The Wreckers broke through with a two-run uprising in the first of the seventh to ice the game.

In the big inning, Ross tripled to send Suckler home, and Tom Moxley came through with a timely single to score Ross.

Al Suckler's scorching double in the third inning enabled Aston to race home from first with the tieing run.

Fullager was in fine form last night. The only time he was in trouble was in the second when the Columbus outfit managed to dent the plate once.

Jim walked Eberhardt to open the inning and a double advanced him to third and he scored a minute later on a long fly. The Wreckers' moundsman struck out four and gave up one walk.

The victory is the second scored over the Kent State combine. The Wreckers defeated the club, 2 to 1, in the finals of the Marion Golden Cup tournament.

It was the Wrecking team's 12th triumph of the season. The club has suffered four losses.

Highlights of the game were Stickler's sensational one hand catch in the first inning. He raced far to his left to snag the line drive. Harold Aston shared a portion of the spotlight with his accurate throw from left field in the third inning to catch a runner going into third.

* * *

Charlie Hall, the Markets' hurler, was one of the toughest moundsmen the Wreckers have faced this year. He fanned seven and issued three walks.

Thompson and Moore Will Toe Rubber for Reds

Cincinnati, Brooklyn Open "Showdown" Series With Doubleheader Today.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE CINCINNATI REDS and Brooklyn Dodgers bump headlong into another "showdown" series today with the National league championship hanging in the balance.

For Brooklyn, at least, the doubleheader today and the night game tomorrow night loomed as the most vital tests of the season. The Reds are racing along at an almost unbelievable pace with 14 victories in their last 16 games.

If Cincinnati is going to be kept from repeating in the senior circuit, this winning streak will have to be curbed quickly and the Dodgers can't count on much help from the other eastern clubs the Reds will be playing in the next two weeks.

The champs took the New York Giants apart in three games over the week-end, dropping them 11 full games behind first place and apparently out of pennant contention for the rest of the year.

This put the task of sidetracking the Reds squarely up to the Dodgers themselves, and the prospect was not too promising, even for ardent Flatbush fans.

The two rivals have met in five series this season, dividing the first four evenly, and when the scales finally tilted, it was in Cincinnati's direction. The Reds beat Brooklyn two games out of three in Crosley field a few days ago helping put the Dodgers on the skids that brought them home today five games behind the lead.

The Dodgers won only six games and lost eight during their recent western invasion and finished with fat old Freddy Fitzsimmons carrying the load as the team's surest winning pitching.

In contrast the Cincinnati staff has been functioning so perfectly that the starting pitcher has worked the complete game in ten out of the last 11 contests.

Starting against the Dodgers, who have been blowing hot and cold, will be Gene Thompson and Lloyd (Whitey) Moore. Thompson has won 10 and lost seven games; Moore has three victories to two losses.

But Deacon Bill McKechnie Cincinnati manager, was expected to take no chances, if either showed signs of weakening against the Flatbushers and put in one of his experts, Bucky Walters or Paul Derringer.

Both major leagues shifted scenery yesterday, an open date and came up for new intersectional stands today.

The big attraction in the American league will be the effort of the Detroit Tigers to protect the lead they picked up while away from their lair.

* * *

For their first opposition at home the Tigers draw the Washington Senators, who suddenly have become dangerous.

Browns Turn Back Yanks

Youngstown Hands Akron 11-7 Beating.

AKRON —(AP)— Sid Peterson Youngstown pitcher, turned the five-game Mid-Atlantic league series with the league-leading Akron Yankees into a great personal triumph.

Peterson hurled his second victory of the series, 11 to 7, in the final game last night and added three singles at bat as the Browns drubbed the Yanks for the fourth time in the five games.

* * *

Charleston handed Dayton a 4-to-3 beating before 4,000 fans at Dayton. The Wings took the series three games to two, however.

The Portsmouth-Canton series finale was postponed because of rain at Canton.

Nick's Place Edges Stoves In League Tilt

Single by Pete Metz Scores Winning Run.

Nick's Place is a game closer to the league-leading Moose club softballers today after the club edged the Tappan Stoves 8 to 7 at Blue Goose field, in a Commercial loop tussle yesterday.

* * *

A four-run rally by the Tappans in the ninth frame tied up the ball game, but Pete Metz, Nick outfielder, managed to solve one of Kleer's slants for a single to bring in the winning run.

Warren Gross was on the mound for the winners, allowing the Tappans nine hits, while Kleer, Tappan hurler, allowed eight safeties.

Pete Metz of the Nicks and McIntire of the Tappans shared the batting spotlight. McIntire got a round trip ticket and a triple out of four times at bat. Metz secured a three-base hit, a double, and two singles out of five trips.

Tinkey Lumbers Split Twin Bill

Tinkey Lumbers, behind the 5-hit hurling of "Stub" Winebrenner, scored an easy 4 to 1 victory over the All State Freights but dropped the second game of a doubleheader to the Loudonville American Legion team, 5 to 4, at Forest Gardens Sunday.

* * *

McCarter was on the mound for the Tinkeys in the second game, allowing the visitors six hits while his teammates collected seven off Studor, Loudonville hurler. A one-run rally in the seventh failed to overtake the two-run lead piled up by the Legion club in the sixth inning.

The box scores were turned in too late for publication Monday.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Diamond Dust: We're not sure whether Umps Joe Rue was a hero for bravely standing there and letting those cowards heave pop bottles at him yesterday—or whether he's a dunce for not ducking. . . . Thank the Lord the throwers' arms were as feeble as their brains. . . . If you think the Yankees are not serious about winning this year's pennant, why do you think they cancelled those exhibition games in Toledo, Baltimore and Buffalo?

John Kieran, New York "Times" —"To hear Manager Ossie Vitt of the Cleveland club tell it in cheerful accents, if there's anything smouldering in the Indians' dugout, it must be smoke from the pipe of peace."

Twenty-eight years ago Charley Howard, the auto man, said, "the horse is gone forever." He's the same guy who paid $15,000 last winter for Mioland! . . . The Brooklyn grid Dodgers are cheering this news: Ace Parker, who broke his leg in a baseball game, has tossed away his crutches and is rarin' to go again.

2½ MINUTE INTERVIEW

Doc Painter, Yankee trainer: "Know what's the matter with the Yankees? Well, no team ever was under a nervous strain for as long as the Yankees were. For four years, they couldn't let down even in exhibition games because they had to keep in mind the fact they were the Yankees and people expected great things of them. This spring they just had a reaction."

finals at Forest Hills last September?

Why can't Bimelech run a lick anymore?

Why is Hannah Dempsey getting a divorce from Jack just when it seemed they were so happy together?

Why are the Yankee Bombers in a dive, and struggling along seven games out of the lead?

What's happened to Jimmy Demaret's golf game, after the Texan's sensational winter successes?

I don't positively know the answers to these questions, but I have a pretty strong suspicion.

Here are the facts: You may judge for yourselves.

I wrote a story saying that Welby Van Horn was the greatest prospect since Bill Tilden was a youngster, and sure to be 1940's outstanding player.

I wrote a story unequivocally naming Bimelech as the greatest horse of all time.

I wrote a story in which I pictured Dempsey's home life as superior in sweetness and light to that of Darby and Joan, and sort of hinted at what they would like for golden wedding anniversary presents.

I wrote a story at the start of the baseball season saying the Yankees would win by 15 or 20 games, and only last Saturday reaffirmed this with a brilliant dispatch outlining how they now had shaken off the shackles of a slump and would beat the tar out of all the other teams. The day after this appeared they lost a doubleheader to the team they must beat to win the pennant.

I wrote a story saying Demaret was the new Hagen and would sweep all before him. I wrote this in Augusta in April and Jimmy hasn't won a tournament since.

By now you must have gathered what my suspicion is, and I could give you a dozen more examples of how the pen, mine, at least, is mightier than the sword in killing off the hopes and ambitions of all who aspire to rise and shine in the sports world.

* * *

Naturally, I have sought to find a cheerful side to this macabre touch of mine. It isn't pleasant to have to picture ones self as a sort of journalistic Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, who wishes to do no harm but seems incapable of keeping himself from it.

Expect New Low-Scoring Mark At National Publinks Tourney

By GEORGE STAUTER

DETROIT — (AP) — A wide-open fight for medalist honors—with the possibility of a new low scoring record—was in prospect today as a field of 190 golfers teed off for the final 18-hole qualifying round of the National Public Links tournament.

* * *

There was every indication a score of 148 or better would be needed to gain one of the 64 qualifying berths for match play beginning tomorrow and that one of the six co-leaders would hang up a new medal mark. The present record is 139.

So great was the beating par took yesterday from the pick of the nation's pay-as-you-go golfers that nearly three-score entrants stroked their way around the long Rackham municipal course in 73 or under.

Only one of five ex-champions—Charles Ferrera of San Francisco—was able to keep up with the leaders. Ferrera, a 35-year-old structural steel worker who won the 1931 and 1933 championships, posted a two-under-par 69 along with five others.

Bracketed with him were Fred Hill, Worcester, Mass., salesman; Adrian French, unemployed Huntington Park, Calif., draftsman; Charles Harter, Indianapolis meat packer; Worth Stimits, jr., of Colorado Springs, Colo., Rocky Mountain intercollegeiate champion, and 20-year-old Luke Barnes, just out of Atlanta high school and one of last year's four co-medalists.

One stroke back with 70's were Robert Price, 40-year-old Oklahoma City coffee shop operator; Edward J. Furgol, Utica, N. Y., metal polisher and Donald Smith, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Eleven equalled par of 71 while 17 were deadlocked at 72 and 20 others were tied at 73.

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — John Rahkonen of New York, who won the 1939 National Amateur Athletic union's 40-kilometer walking test in Boston, is expected to compete in this year's event here Oct. 20, G. D. Chumard of Cincinnati, Ohio AAU secretary, said a field of 30 probably would tour the route of about 25 miles.

BUCYRUS MAYOR FINES 2 DRIVERS

Albert Harriger of Bucyrus made arrangements to pay a $5 fine and costs on the same charge. He was arrested by police on Mansfield street, Saturday night.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Real estate is becoming recognized as one of the foremost investment media unaffected by stock market fluctuations and upheavals caused by war, according to Newell J. Ness, on Philadelphia building and loan executive.

"Home ownership today," asserted Ness, "is more than merely insurance against possible rental increases. It is also an investment for the home buyer with the added feature that the money he puts into the home will not [illegible]"

GOOD EARNINGS REPORTS FAIL TO STIR MARKET

War News Help Keep Exchange From Developing Any Definite Trends.

NEW YORK (AP) Efforts to steam up the stock market today again were handicapped by European war influences and definite trends were lacking.

Ordinarily, brokers said, the cheerful flow of second quarter and six months' earnings statements might have acted as a stimulant.

Among resistant stocks were Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Pennsylvania and Loft.

The pickup in steel mill operations to the best level since last December remained as a bolstering factor for shares in this category. Talk of dwindling new orders for steel products, however, tended to offset the production climb to some extent.

Net operating income figures of early reporting railroads for June indicated a recession of better than 3 per cent from the corresponding 1939 month in the face of an upturn in gross revenues of around 4½ per cent.

HULL PRESIDES AS PARLEY SETS ABOUT ITS TASK

Pan-American Delegates Seek Common Safeguards For Economy, Defense.

"conjectural hypothesis."

Other speakers, however generally supported Secretary Hull's version of dangers besetting the new world because of aggressive military and economic methods on other continents.

Hull, seemingly undiscouraged by the Argentine position similar to that at the Lima conference in 1938, moved ahead with drafting of resolutions embodying his government's proposals.

Hull clearly was receptive to modifications to incorporate the views of other governments. He hoped the resolutions thus would emerge as the recommendations of the full commissions as a step toward the unanimity which he sought as proof of continental solidarity.

What Argentina and some of the others wanted to know before entering any commitments on hemisphere economy or defense was the specific application of these measures to their own problems.

In Buenos Aires livestock breeders and grain planters responsible for 45 per cent of Argentina's agricultural output adopted last night a resolution opposing any Western hemisphere export cartel as a big stick in the hands of United States producers, "Our direct competitors."

At the same time, as compensating benefits for economic aid, the United States sought support for other measures dealing with the future of European colonies in the western hemisphere and subversive activities within the republics.

Hull's plan to circumvent acquisition of new world colonies by foreign powers was a collective trusteeship by all the 21 American republics until these colonies either could be restored to their "original sovereign" or become independent.

His economic formulas called both for immediate relief to countries burdened with large export surpluses and for long-range development of an economic system sufficiently strong to withstand possible pressure from policies of European or other powers.

CANADA BUILDS WAR HOSPITAL

Modern Institution to Cost $1,000,000; Has Beds For 600 Men.

LONDON, Eng.—(U.P.)—The most modern military hospital will be ready soon to be handed over to the Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Costing approximately $1,000,000 of Canadian money, it provides beds for 600 men, including 60 reserved for officers, and no expense has been spared to obtain the best quality equipment for repairing the health of sick and war-wounded Canadian soldiers.

Already an advance party of the Canadian Army Medical Corps is at the hospital. It includes the quartermaster, the padre, and medical officers who are advising on the equipment and layout of the wards and sorting out the 275 tons of hospital equipment which has been sent across from every part of Canada.

While the greater part of the equipment has come from Canada, a few items, the best of their kind, have been bought in the United States and Britain. The sterilizing equipment was bought and consigned duty free from America and the shadowless lamps in the operating room were purchased in London.

The hospital, a solidly built block of one story buildings of brick and concrete, connected by enclosed corridors, has arisen on the site of the old hut hospital where so many wounded Canadians found treatment and convalescence in the World war.

The Canadian war cemetery, in which there are 42 graves of Canadian soldiers and some of the last war nursing staff, is cut out of the hillside overlooking a river in quiet, peaceful surroundings.

Attack on Britain Ordered By Nazis

Germany Takes Halifax Statement as Final Refusal to Talk Peace; Girds for Assault on Isle.

papers immediately began to prepare the public mind for events to come. This comment by Nachtausgabe was typical:

"Halifax's new British declaration of war against Germany must now be answered in a firm, hard way so that this band of criminals, reactionaries and obnoxious hypocrites never again can hold the threat of war over Germany."

Ever since Compiegne, Wilhelmstrasse quarters said, Hitler hoped for a bloodless settlement to keep the British Empire intact and fit it into a "revised Europe." But the speech of Lord Halifax totally blacked out any such possibility, it was said, and total war now will come.

Today's communique by the German high command was regarded as a foreboding symptom. It told of attacks upon five important British ports, and it is expected such raids would increase daily, systematically broadening in their number and the areas covered, with several days of intense air bombardment preceding "the final stage of the conquest."

BERLIN—Destruction of British merchant ships while under convoy and damaging air raids against England and Scotland were announced by the German high command today.

"One of our small submarines sank 18,000 tons of convoyed enemy merchant ships," the German war communique stated.

"The German air force reconnoitered England and Scotland and bombed especially the ports of Pembroke with its oil reservoirs, Chatham, Sheerness, Edinburgh, Aberdeen and airports near Portsmouth and the Bristol channel.

"Three merchant vessels were damaged by bomb hits in the channel and off the English east coast."

Nazis Call In Rumanians To Settle Balkan Tangle

(By International News Service)

BUDAPEST—Germany stepped into the tangled Balkan situation once more today with revelation that two Rumanian statesmen have been invited to the reich by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Rumanian Premier Ion Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu will travel to Salzburg to confer with Von Ribbentrop on Friday.

There, it was reported, they will hear the Nazi decision regarding Rumania's future, including disposition of Hungarian and Bulgarian territorial claims for Transylvania and South Dobruja.

The invitation has left all Rumania nervously expecting momentous events.

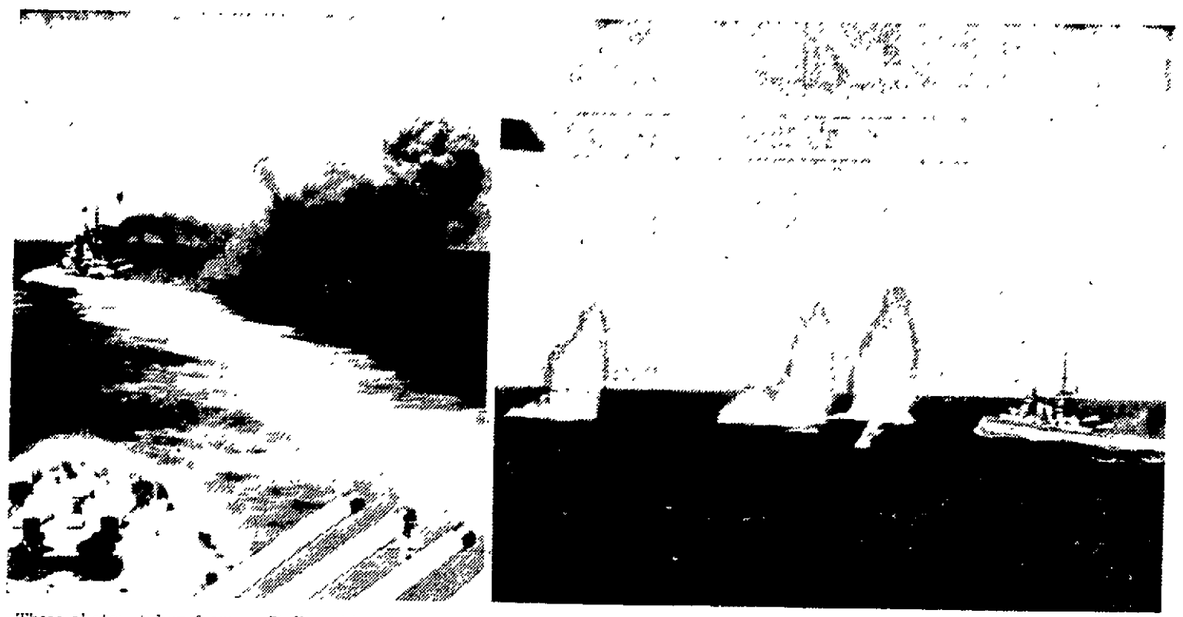
Hungary's government, meanwhile, suddenly decided to grant autonomy to Ruthenia. Under this plan, half a million Ruthenians formerly under Czechoslovakian rule until that country disappeared, will enjoy home rule.

Russo-German interplay in the Balkan situation was stressed once again by appointment of former Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu as envoy to Moscow. The naming of an important statesman to the Moscow post was regarded as symptomatic of Rumania's diplomatic tight-rope walking between Berlin and the Kremlin.

Balkan diplomatic quarters understand that the Axis powers firmly back Hungary's claims for Transylvania and expect the impending crisis may prove the greatest in Rumanian history.

King Carol may lose control of events, they said, and "total internal confusion" in Rumania may be the result.

First Photos of Battle of The Mediterranean



These photos, taken from an Italian ship, show one side of the sea battle between Il Duce's warships and those of Great Britain in their first great fight in the Mediterranean. Left, an Italian destroyer has delivered a broadside at the English fleet many miles away. Right, a British answer: shells burst entirely too close for comfort. Both sides claimed victory, though unofficial sources declared the Italian ships ran for cover.

HEAT STAYS IN 90'S; NO RELIEF

173 Deaths In U. S. Blamed On Heat Wave: Showers Due But They Won't Help.

ing a spring and early summer of unseasonable cold weather, is credited with having caused 173 deaths over the nation, with 31 of them due directly to heat prostration and the others to drownings when persons sought relief from the heat.

In Cincinnati yesterday the two months old son of Patrolman Joseph Hartlaub, died from heat exhaustion, and Dewey Atkerson, 40, died from heat prostration. Walter Wysocki, 42, Cleveland, drowned in the Cuyahoga river near Independence. In Ohio alone there have been 25 deaths from heat and drownings since last Friday, news dispatches said today.

Farmers throughout the corn belt watched thermometers with growing alarm as the heat continued, fearful that the fiery sun and searing winds would ruin the crop.

Damage to corn crops was reported in Iowa and it was feared that this might become serious especially for the corn that is now in the tasseling stage. The corn fields of that state have stood under 100 degree temperatures for several days.

No Rain In 26 Days.

Only a drenching rain within the next few days can save the corn in eastern Nebraska, where there has been no rain for 26 consecutive days. Illinois farmers were also apprehensive unless there is a heavy rain soon.

At Cleveland yesterday the temperature was reported at 95, but was relieved temporarily by a 32-mile wind that followed thunderstorms.

The U. S. weather bureau at Chicago reported today that the protracted heat wave, probably would continue for at least three days more.

Phoenix, Ariz., claimed the doubtful honor of having the highest temperature in the nation, 112, while Las Vegas, N. M., gasped under 106 degrees. Yuma, Ariz., which is said to be the hottest spot in the United States, was two under Phoenix, with 110. Even in St. Paul and Minneapolis the mercury made 103.

In Washington, D. C. where it was 97, clerks in government service and in buildings which were not air cooled were given time off. The heat causing many diplomats at the state department to shed their coats along with dignity.

But while most of the nation gasped for breath, the 3,800 residents of Leadville, Col., high in the mountains, snuggled under blankets to keep warm. The temperature registered 40 degrees—eight above freezing.

In Akron, with the temperature hovering above 90, an inconsistant burglar broke into the home of Frank D. Smalley and stole an overcoat. With this to keep his spirits warm, he looted the ice box of ice cold watermelon.

MERCHANDISERS

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—The elfin wits of San Francisco shopkeepers are irrepressibly evident throughout the city. Among those causing goggle-eyes among visitors is the hamburger stand operator whose sign announces that his place has served more than 1,319,400 hamburgers since opening in one year. He advises "you eat and we'll count." Another hamburger stand announces "a seating capacity of 4,000" (meaning only 12 at a time, however), and a Mission district merchant advertises "Fifty Years in the Mission (in 1952)."

Russians Suggest 3-Power Parley

LONDON—(INS)—A suggestion that the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia hold a conference to discuss mutual interests in the light of Japan's expressed intention of establishing a "new order in Asia" was voiced by an authoritative Soviet spokesman today.

In an apparent feeler to determine American and British reaction, the spokesman said that Russia would welcome such a conference. He said that China, as a "vitally interested party" should be represented.

New problems are certain to arise, he said, when the three-month agreement between Britain and Japan to close the Burma road expires. The interested powers, the spokesman declared, should meet before this time comes.

"The U. S. S. R. cannot remain indifferent to events in the Far East," he said."

U. S. Fleet Continues Shielded Operations

HONOLULU—(AP)—The United States fleet continued mystery-veiled operations on the high seas today following departure of major units from Lahaina roads and Pearl Harbor.

Lahaina roads, Maui island, where most of the fleet had been based for a scheduled three-weeks maneuvers and target practice, was evacuated last Friday. Other units left Pearl Harbor yesterday.

Most of the Lahaina roads ships were believed heading southward. It was understood part of the detachment was going to Christmas island, just north of the equator, and that operations of some of the vessels would extend to below the equator. This would lend some credence to reports that the United States is planning to patrol southern islands east of the international dateline.

Christmas island is jointly owned by the United States and Great Britain.

prisal raids on Rome and Berlin if London were bombed.

The prime minister mildly reproved Conservative Oswald Lewis for asking if such raids would be made, declaring:

"If the answer were in the negative, it would remove a deterrent upon the enemy. If it were in the affirmative, it might spur him to increase his preparations and add to the difficulties of our airmen. If it were noncommittal it would not add to the enlightenment of Mr. Lewis.

"Although the enemy frequently volunteers statements of his intentions through various channels, these are nearly always found to be untruthful and given for the purpose of misleading. I should be very sorry if Mr. Lewis, by making inquiries about future military operations, were to tempt me into a course of that character."

Commons cheered his announcement that every sentence imposed on "chatterbugs" for careless talk would be reviewed immediately.

He said the government had no desire "to make crimes out of silly vaporings" and welcomed free discussion of the war provided there was no breach of official secrets and no disclosure of troop positions or future operations.

The admiralty announced today that nine British merchant ships totalling 23,963 tons, four allied ships totalling 7,335 tons and six neutral ships totalling 20,734 tons were sunk by enemy action in the week ended July 14.

Meanwhile naval experts declared Britain has more destroyers in service now than when war began last September, despite the loss of 26, including the sinking of the Brazen announced yesterday.

The exchange of air blows between England and Germany continued as the nation took its cue to fight on against Germany at all costs from Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, who spoke to the world by radio last night to reject bluntly Fuehrer Hitler's "last chance" offer.

Lord Halifax was plain-spoken in his rejection of the new Hitler "peace" gesture.

"The people of the British commonwealth," he said, "along with all those who love truth and justice and freedom will never accept this new world of Hitler's."

Vandenberg Opposes Peacetime Conscription for U. S.

SENATOR URGES FULL RELIANCE ON VOLUNTEERS

Senate Committee Starts Study of Burke-Wadsworth Military Training Measure.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The senate military committee today approved to comprehensive compulsory military training calling for registration of 42,000,000 men between 18 and 64 years.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Proposals for compulsory military training were criticized today by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), who said he questioned the necessity of peacetime conscription to fill the expanding ranks of the nation's armed forces.

President Roosevelt and the army high command have endorsed selective service as an essential element in the defense drive, but Vandenberg told reporters he was not convinced that "our ordinary reliance of volunteers" would fail to supply the necessary manpower.

As the senate military committee was called into closed session on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory service bill, Vandenberg also indicated he did not see eye to eye with war department proposals for mobilizing the National Guard's 235,000 men if conscription is voted.

Mobilizing the militia for a year's training, said Vandenberg, might cause a "very cruel dislocation" in the homes of many guardsmen who did not expect "whole time service" with the regular land forces during peacetime.

However, two members of the military committee, Gurney (R-SD) and Minton (D-Ind) announced that they would vote to recommend enactment of compulsory service. Minton, Democratic whip, announced:

"I'm for it if the war department says it's necessary."

With the anticipated military training controversy shaping up, a house committee pursued its study of the navy share in President Roosevelt's new $4,848,171,957 recommendation for supplementary preparedness expenditures.

After the first day's closed hearing, Chairman Woodrum (D-Va) said yesterday it was apparent that the navy was "going ahead full speed" on its construction program, cutting many corners in the interests of speed.

He quoted Secretary of the Navy Knox as testifying that the program was planned to such a nicety that naval officials had "a schedule of the days the new ships are to be laid down and the days they are to go down the ways."

The navy, meanwhile issued a detailed statement designed to explain why a more powerful fleet is not now in being.

The document, entitled "the decline and rise of United States naval power 1921-1940," said that if 237 capital ships had not been scrapped or demilitarized under the 1921 Washington and the 1930 London disarmament acts, the United States today would "have a more powerful battle line that we can hope to have in the next six years."

STARTS SHELBY TAX REPORTS

Examiner Aids Merchants In Filling Out Returns For Half Year Period.

Harley D. Miracle, Richland county sales tax examiner, was in Shelby today, the second stop in his 10-day swing through the county to assist merchants in filling out semi-annual sales tax reports.

The examiner's schedule opened yesterday in Shiloh and will close next Tuesday with a return visit at the George Armstrong office in Shelby.

Merchants were warned by H. H. Hering, district sales tax examiner that reports must be filed with the sales tax division by July 31.

Wednesday Miracle will be at Weekley's garage in Butler from 8:30 a. m. until noon, and from 12:30 p. m. until 4:30 p. m. at Bone's hardware store in Bellville.

The balance of the schedule is: July 25, Plymouth bank, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; July 26, Koogle grocery, Lexington, noon until 4:30 p. m.; July 29, Lucas bank, 11 a. m. to 3 p. m.; July 30, George Armstrong's office, Shelby, 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

EXPECT SMITH WILL SUPPORT WILLKIE DRIVE

Opposition of Man Who Took 'Walk' to Third Term Seen as Influence.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Al Smith, who "took a walk" when the Democratic party renominated Roosevelt in 1936, is expected to support Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee, in the 1940 presidential campaign.

Smith, his friends pointed out today, is a vigorous opponent of the third term. He believes a third term would accentuate what he contends is the peril of too much centralized power in Washington.

Whether Al will make speeches in Willkie's behalf has not been settled. However, in 1936 the former governor of New York and one-time Democratic presidential candidate made talks in behalf of Alf Landon, the Republican nominee.

Smith, in the forthcoming campaign, probably will find his niche in the ranks of one of the various factions of anti-third termers, such as the Jeffersonian Democrats, the Andrew Jackson party (headed by former Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York, who was "purged" by the New Deal), or the American Liberty league, which is still in existence.

Al "took a walk" from Mr. Roosevelt four years ago when he and Democrats of his stamp no longer could go along with the bulk of Roosevelt's policies and the trend of his administration toward centralization of power. He did not oppose all New Deal policies, however. In fact, he favored Roosevelt's neutrality bill.

Smith did not attend the Democratic national convention in Chicago. He heard some of the proceedings over the radio but he didn't stay up to listen to President Roosevelt's address to the convention. His interest was cooled because he felt the convention was dominated by one man—the president.

been rapidly drawing to their conclusion.

"From the day when the people of these republics first gained their independent and democratic form of government, the people of the United States have watched their admirable progress in self-government with deep and sympathetic interest.

"The policy of this government is universally known. The people of the United States are opposed to predatory activities no matter whether they are carried on by the use of force or by the threat of force.

"They are likewise opposed to any form of intervention on the part of one state, however powerful, in the domestic concern of any other sovereign state, however weak.

"These principles constitute the very foundations upon which the existing relationship between the 21 sovereign republics of the new world rests.

"The United States will continue to stand by these principles because of the conviction of the American people that unless the doctrine in which these principles are inherent once again governs the relations between nations, the rule of reason, of justice and of law—in other words the basis of modern civilization itself—cannot be preserved."

'Excursion Party' Leaves Jail For Workhouse Trip

When the station wagon pulled away from county jail today headed for the Columbus workhouse, it looked like an excursion party. There were five prisoners, besides the driver.

In the group were two child molesters: Charles Frasher, 76, of 5 West Second street, and Junior T. Butcher, 45, of 109 East Fifth street. They will serve one year each in the workhouse. Butcher is also under a $200 fine which will be imposed if he does not leave the state and stay out after he has served his sentence.

The other three were members of the "order easy" school. Judge G. F. Kolbielsen sentenced them yesterday. They were Jack Lewis, 370 North Mulberry street, to serve 30 days; Joe Daniels, 250 North Franklin street, and Fred Wolf, 187 North Main street. They will serve 10 days each as the result of drinking "hopped up" cider.

IN CITY 2 DAYS, BOYS ARRESTED

Four Brothers Become Listed As Juvenile Delinquents After Alleged Theft.

It took four young boys, all brothers, little more than a day to move into Mansfield and become listed as juvenile delinquents, with their second night in the city spent in the detention home.

The family moved to Mansfield from Cleveland Sunday after the father had obtained a position with a Mansfield business concern. Monday night the four boys, 10, 12, 15 and 16, were arrested by city police, their arms loaded with loot from the Universal Parts company, Ashland road.

It was believed that the boys sighted the auto wrecking lot on their way into Mansfield from Cleveland. Sunday afternoon they went to the lot and apparently looked over the place to locate what they wanted, according to the management. An attendant ordered the boys out of the place.

The attendant told Sheriff E. P. Long that while he was on his way out to the wrecking lot he saw the boys walking on Ashland road. He reported them to city police who picked them up at the bridge near the Armory. They were lugging a motor cycle motor, and were carrying all they could hold in their pockets.

The two older boys said the two younger ones didn't do any of the actual stealing, but had accompanied them.

Judge C. J. Anderson this morning ordered the two older boys to report to him every Saturday while juvenile court workers check on the boys' records in Cuyhoga and Franklin counties. They have lived in both places. He said if the boys have records, he would make some other disposition of their case.

BRITONS CONFIDENT THEY'LL WIN, LETTER TELLS RELATIVES

The faith of the British people in England that they will not lose the war, is expressed in a letter which Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, 319 Newman street, received from his sister in London regarding sending three children to the Mansfield couple.

The Rogers recently received a request from their relatives to take three grandchildren and arrangments have been completed in London for their coming over here, but are held up pending transportation. The three children are Russell Abrahams, 14, and his twin brothers, Derek and Barry, 7.

The letter was written on June 28, almost a month ago and before England had the full realization of Nazi plans. "The war is a ghastly business," Rogers' sister wrote, "and I did not think there was so much corruption and double crossing in the world. There is no doubt that traitors have placed Hitler where he is today, but Britain must not and will not lose the war. Hard times lie ahead: privation and suffering we know we must face, but right down at the bottom, the people of England know that a final victory is assured."

Other Mansfielders have offered homes to English children but the problem of how to get them over here has been holding up sending them to America.

City, State, NAA Officials Confer on Airport.

To be studied is a program calling for rehabilitation of the present runways to make them suitable for wet weather landings, construction of an administration building and development of a roadside park by the state highway department.

HURON COUNTY GIVEN ROBBER GANG SUSPECTS

Six of Alleged Gang Rounded Up In Mansfield Taken to Norwalk on Charges.

Six members of an alleged stickup gang rounded up here last week were in custody of Huron county authorities today while two others held in the city jail will be turned over to Franklin county officers this afternoon.

The ninth member of the alleged gang, Robert Hanlon, 21, of 15 Woodland avenue, is in the county jail awaiting grand jury action on a charge of breaking and entering.

Huron county officers armed with warrants charging armed robbery of a filling station at Wakeman on July 15 took the six to Norwalk last night.

They are John W. Snyder, 19, of 184½ North Main street; Paul Fox, 21, Lily street; Robert Bushey, 21, Shelby; Gordon T. McElroy, 21, of 84 Orchard street, and William and Clifford Walters, 22 King street.

Those to be released to Franklin county authorities this afternoon are John E. Symsick, 20, of 212 Coul street, and Norman McNeeley, 19, of 83 McPherson street.

Detainers have also been filed by Franklin county officers against Bushey and Clifford Walters, both of whom confessed, police said, to participating in the robbery of a filling station east of Columbus several weeks ago with Symsick and McNeeley.

McNeeley, Bushey and Fox were also charged with burglarizing a Lincoln Heights filling station with Hanlon. They were not arraigned here.

The youths admitted to Detectives Lee J. Remy and Oscar Krupp and Sheriff E. P. Long, who made the arrests, that they had held up three central Ohio filling stations and burglarized four others, including three in Richland county.

AUTO RECOVERED

State highway patrolmen today reported the recovery of a stolen automobile belonging to Mrs. J. S. Maue, 46 Brickman avenue.

Mrs. Maue reported to Mansfield police yesterday that the car was taken from her garage sometime Sunday night.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JULY 23, 1940.

Maybe the lucky people are those who find the war too big to understand, and don't try.

People spend most of the year looking forward to summer and then complain because it's too hot.

Back home from the Chicago convention, some of those delegates may be wondering if this is actually a government "of the people, for the people, by the people."

Arrest Speeders On City Streets

WITH the comprehensive report and recommendations of the Citizens' traffic committee as a basis, and with assurance of public support of action by city council to improve traffic conditions in Mansfield, it appears that some immediate steps can be taken to encourage better driving habits among local motorists—which will also encourage transients to drive more carefully in this city and vicinity.

Probably the most flagrant abuse of driving privileges is noted in the unlawful speed at which many motorists drive inside the city, where the absolute limit is 35 miles an hour, with 25 miles an hour as the maximum on streets that are not a part of state or federal highways.

While this difference may be somewhat confusing it should not be difficult for anyone capable of driving a car to distinguish between the 35- and the 25-mile streets and to conform to the restriction on each.

Failure to heed "stop" signs is another common violation of traffic regulations in Mansfield, growing largely out of non-enforcement of this safety measure.

Excessive horn-honking by at least a small percentage of apparently subnormal drivers has reached nuisance proportions in both residential and business sections of the city. It has become a habit with some mentally juvenile drivers to use their auto horn as a plaything, in total disregard of disturbance of other persons, even late at night and during early morning hours when many people are sleeping. Hotel guests have frequently complained that Mansfield is made undesirable as an over-night stopping place on account of auto horn-honking throughout the night. This is a bad reputation for a city to have.

Horn honking in residential sections during the night is due largely to the high speed at which cars travel—the drivers appearing to think it necessary to sound the horn when approaching street intersections so as to warn other drivers to keep out of their way.

Some encouragement may be found in the fact that two speeders were arrested in Mansfield within the past couple of days, one on Park avenue west and one on West Fourth street, and were fined for the offense.

If there can be more consistent enforcement of traffic regulations on Mansfield streets, to the extent of developing a feeling among motorists that they are quite likely to be arrested and fined if they exceed speed limits or disregard stop signs, the improvement in driving habits will become quickly noticeable.

Short Sighted Patriotism

THERE still seems to be a notion lurking in the minds of many Americans that it is wicked to help England. It is said to be held rather strongly among some groups of citizens, and in some sections of the country, that what happens to Britain is none of our business.

Such an attitude may be found alike among our oldest and newest citizens. Americans of revolutionary ancestry may cling to family and historical tradition. Americans recently naturalized may be subject to race prejudice or may have a natural desire to avoid all foreign controversy.

These facts, however, should remain clear to anyone who takes a realistic view of the situation: That we Americans, with all our varied origins and mixed culture, are on the whole immensely closer to England and other English countries than to any other country; that our language, literature, forms of government and modes of thought and general culture, are derived mainly from England; that politically and ideologically we are almost as close to England as to Canada; that Great Britain is the last stronghold of freedom, of our way of government and life, that is left in the Old World; that if Britain is conquered by the corporate Nazi system and made another slave state on the pattern of the fallen democracies of western Europe, our country will be the only powerful nation left to maintain our free way of life against an enslaved world.

Britain is still our own "first line of defense," holding back the common enemy while we arm, and it is dangerous to take any other view.

Where Compromise Is Necessary

PRESIDENT-ELECT BATISTA of Cuba, on the eve of the inter-American conference, announced his preference for independence for the people of the European possessions in this hemisphere. "The peoples of America," he said, "are very jealous of their independence." They would not like military domination or even mandate control by the republics of the New World.

Advance reports from Ecuador and Paraguay supported the mandate idea. Argentina opposed it, but did not go so far as Batista in recommending complete freedom.

It is not going to be easy to settle this and other issues that will be considered at the conference. The delegates will be rather well agreed on their opposition to interference ever here by any power in Europe. But they are likely to disagree vigorously on the practical measures to prevent it.

It is to be hoped that compromise on various points will be possible. Without it the conference may come to naught and ill feeling be developed. Why not consider mandates now with independence at the earliest possible date? Some working plan is vital to the safety of all the Americas.

Democracy

"THE IDEALS you stand for," says Frederick E. Hasler, president of the Pan American society, addressing young men, "are the lifeblood of civilization.

"Democracy is not a forgotten dream. It has been asleep. The decent people of the world, in failing to recognize that the devil and his works were not dead, placed their trust in the good faith of a supposedly civilized government whose spoken and written words have proved to be worthless.

"It may be a matter of months or years, but no matter how long it takes, victory is ours because the young men of the democracies are real men, not quitters."

There's nothing so conventional as political convention.

SOMEBODY'S GOING TO BE LATE TO WORK

Senate to Continue Democratic

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

HOPEFUL as the Republicans are of electing Wendell L. Willkie to the White House, they have to admit that, even if they do, he still won't have a solidly Republican congress to co-operate with him during his first two years in office, anyway.

WILLKIE

They profess confidence of their ability to put a G. O. P. majority into the house of representatives, and that they can do if they get votes enough. The senators' terms expire, however, only one-third at a time. And the Democrats' present senatorial margin of advantage is so wide that, though the Republicans succeed in winning every senate seat at stake this year, the Democrats still will have a small majority.

If Willkie and McNary are winners, the G. O. P. will have the vice presidential vote to rely on whenever a senate tie occurs, but it isn't likely that there'll be any. On the contrary, a heavy shrinkage in their majority probably will consolidate the surviving Democrats. There have been rather too many of them for their party's own good throughout the Roosevelt administration, because an excess of one side's numbers, in a body like the United States senate, encourages insubordination.

Wendell then, assuming his presidential election, is due to have at least the first half of his first term, in all probability, rendered something of a worry to him by an unmanageable upper congressional chamber. It will be 1942, at the earliest, before he can get it Republicanized.

Quite An Undertaking.

It will be quite an undertaking for the G. O. P. to gain control of the house of representatives in November. Still, supposing a sufficient landslide to elect Willkie and McNary, it's a distinct possibility.

As previously remarked, it isn't even a possibility in the senate's case.

In fact, the possibility of Republican victories in all of this year's senatorial elections is only theoretical. The G. O. P. may make quite a few gains, but it's a million-to-one that they don't scoop in everything.

For insance, Democratic senators' terms are expiring, at the end of 1940, in such states as Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. Who'd bet that all these commonwealths will go Republican? G. O. P. strategists are making some pretty tall claims, to be sure. They point out that Willkie clubs are being organized all over the south. They contend that Wendell and Charley McNary will chalk up surprisingly all over Dixie. They actually predict that they'll beat Senator Tom Connally in the Lone Star state. But nobody's staking any money on it.

Other states where Democrats are up for senatorial re-election in November are Arizona, Connecticut, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming and Utah.

It's conceivable that the G. O. P. will make some captures up and down this list.

Perhaps, for example, Willkie, as an ex-Hoosier (and he's capitalizing it for all it's worth), might defeat Senator Minton, by sweeping a Republican in on his coat-tails.

Republicans are in the race in only seven states—California, Delaware, Maine, Michigan New Jersey, North Dakota and Vermont. It's a fair guess that they'll stay senatorially G. O. P. if Wendell and Charley score a landslide.

Also a couple of mavericks are in the contest—Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Laborite) of Minnesota and Senator La Follette (Progressive) of Wisconsin. The Republicans have an eye on those seats likewise. They're not such bad Republican gambling; the G. O. P. has been making decided gains lately, especially in Minnesota.

Can't Get 'EM All.

The fact remains that Willkie and McNary can't imaginably drag Republicans in with 'em in all those senatorial contests.

Their 1940 task is to register enough Republicans to enable them to Repuplicanize the senate in 1942. And they'll have to hustle to do that. If they don't accomplish it, they'll have a Democratic senate to deal with clear until the 1944 election.

And, even if they're elected, the senate will be Democratic for two years anyway.

In a fashion it'll be worse for McNary than for Willkie. Willkie, if elected, will be separated from the recalcitrant senators by the length of Pennsylvania avenue. McNary'll be trying to preside over 'em.

This Is Ohio

Ohio leads all other states in the production of hollow building tile and roof tile.

The industry started as early as 1814 in the quaint village of Germantown, south of Dayton. In 1820 tile was made at the village of Zoar, in Tuscarawas county. Many tile roofs at Zoar still are in excellent condition, although more than 100 years old.

Today the important centers for tile manufacture are Akron, New Philadelphia, Cincinnati, New Lexington and points in the Hocking valley.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

More Than Roses.

You, too, I think, you must admit
A garden's strange bright strength.
Here wandering along the paths
Dreams know no sense of length.

That time holds out. Here weariness
Like an old garment falls
Away. Here fairy tales come true
And here the heart recalls

It's youth. A garden is a strange,
Dear place, within its close
There is so much beyond space, time
To find.

Can Men Wear Shorts?

Ralph Yoes of Oklahoma City is preparing to test in the courts the important question of whether men can invade the rights of women. Yoes appeared upon the streets of Oklahoma City in shorts and was arrested on the charge of appearing before the public in too abbreviated a costume.

As a defense he declared that women often appear on the Oklahoma City streets in the same garb as that which caused his arrest. He says that if women can display their nether limbs he does not see why men should not have the same right.

We have for many years discussed the question of giving women equal rights with men. Yoes is turning the tables and demanding the same rights now accorded women, be granted to men.

The public will watch with interest for this important decision of the courts. The people will desire to know whether men must step to the background in the staging of shorts parades. Wisconsin State Journal.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Native Unrest Disturbs Bahamas; F. D. R. Hopeful of Lewis' Support

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Whether he realizes it or not, the Duke of Windsor is going to have a tougher time on his hands as governor of the Bahamas than merely sitting round the roulette tables of Nassau or entertaining ritzy tourists from the U. S. A.

The Duke was appointed to the Bahamas partly to give him something to do some place near the native land of his wife, but also to keep him as far away as possible from his pro-German friends in England and his Nazi pals in Germany—who were reputed to entertain ideas about restoring him to the throne of England.

However, when the ex-king gets to the azure islands just off the coast of Florida he will find a major social problem awaiting him. For the Bahamas are not self-supporting; even with their rich tourist trade they are an economic liability. The United Kingdom gives them all sorts of concessions to keep the populace contented.

Among other things, the British government pays a high preference on Bahaman sugar to sweeten the English cup of tea. It pays through the nose in comparison with the much cheaper Cuban sugar. And should Germany conquer the United Kingdom and cast off the Bahamas, those islands would face economic disaster.

The Bahaman population is 90 per cent black, and already the sour situation abroad and its reflex in Nassau, have caused rioting. The Negroes are a prolific people, increasing the economic strain with every increase in the population.

One solution might be birth control, and the Bahamas would offer an interesting laboratory for this experiment. A similar experiment has been discussed in the heavily over-populated island of Puerto Rico, but there the Negroes are Catholic while in the Bahamas they are Protestant.

At any rate, the Duke of Windsor is likely to have his hands full, and with a problem which is not entirely British. For the United States, because of Nassau's proximity, would be vitally concerned with any rioting which brought a native demand for German control. Nazi agents already have been working among West Indian Negroes to this end.

Roosevelt vs. Wheeler.

THE real fight over the Democratic platform did not take place in the locked room of the platform makers, but over the long distance phone between Chicago and Washington. The issue was isolationism and the struggle was between the president and Senator Burton K. Wheeler.

Wheeler demanded an out-and-out isolationist plank, under threat of bolting and heading a third party ticket. Roosevelt flatly refused to accept this, under threat to refuse to run if it went into the platform.

He agreed with Wheeler on a declaration against sending troops abroad, but insisted on a stand for defense of the Monroe Doctrine and for aid to nations resisting Nazi-Fascist aggression.

The two battled via long distance phone for three days, finally were brought together on a compromise by Secretary Henry Wallace, a member of the committee. The Iowan's masterly handling played a big part in his choice for the vice presidency. He won a lot of kudos from both sides that helped his candidacy at the right moment.

Naming Hitler.

THE rival groups in the platform committee had a hot time of their own when they tried to put the compromise formula into words. Senator Bob Wagner, committee chairman and anti-isolationist, submitted a draft about aid for victims of aggression that contained the words "totalitarian aggressors." Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts isolationist who is up for election this year, protested.

"I think we ought to realize," he pontificated, "that there are many naturalized Americans from these two countries who have strong feelings for them and will be offended. They mount up to a lot of votes and I'm against throwing them away."

In the bitter clash that ensued, Wagner declared that personally he favored naming Hitler in the denunciation.

"How would you name him?" shouted a member.

"Far as I am concerned," shot back Wagner, who was born in Germany, "I'd call him a ——."

Ex(?)-Senator Glass.

SENATOR GLASS of Virginia, who made headlines by taking a bride at the age of 82 and by nominating Jim Farley at Chicago, may make headlines again by resignnig from the senate.

This is the shop talk in Virgia political circles, where the story is so well advanced that Glass' successor has already been picked—namely, Douglas Freeman, editor of The Richmond News-Leader.

Freeman is one of the most brilliant men in Virginia, and far more liberal in thought than the crochety but much loved octogenarian he may succeed. He is author of a four-volume work on Robert E. Lee which won the Pulitzer prize in 1934.

One obstacle stands in his way. Glass, though he wants to quit the senate, doesn't want to give Governor Jim Price the chance to appoint his successor. Glass was last elected in 1936 and has two years to go. Even though Carter has nothing against Douglas Freeman, he never misses an opportunity to be offensive to the pro-New Deal governor.

Virginia opinion is changing just a bit on the subject of its veteran senator. The reasoning runs like this: "If "Cyarter" is young enough to get married, he is no longer an antique, and need not be treasured so.

Lewis For FDR.

EVEN though John L. Lewis has three times declared that if the president ran for a third term he would be "ignominiously defeated," behind the scenes the "fix is in" for a reconciliation between them. Intimates have been working on both for several weeks ever since the GOP platform opned the way for a face-saver for Lewis.

When he threw his brickbats at the president before the platform committee in Philadelphia, Lewis expected in return that the Republicans would avoid advocating amendment of the National Labor Relations Act in their labor plank. Under Alf Landon's urging the plank as originally drafted said nothing about revision.

But big industrial contributors demanded no pussyfooting on the issue. In the end Landon was overruled and the plank as adopted declared for amendment of the law.

Lewis was burned up. New Dealers, gravely concerned at the prospect of labor's ranks divided in the campaign, were delighted. They saw a heaven-sent chance to patch up peace and they got busy.

Eagerly helping them were Phil Murray, Tom Kennedy, John Owen and other CIO leaders, who had disapproved of Lewis' anti-third term pot-shots.

At Chicago the two groups worked out a way for Lewis to save face. It's the Democratic platform plank promising a national unemployment conference of government, industrial, labor and agricultural leaders.

This is a pet idea of John L.'s. He's been after Roosevelt to convene such a pow-wow for several years, and its inclusion in the platform is a personal triumph of the kind that is very satisfying to the Lewis ego.

Next move is a personal meeting between Lewis and Roosevelt for the formal burial of the hatchet. The man who will turn this trick is Henry Wallace, whom Lewis greatly admires and helped put over at the psychological moment.

Swimming Termed Best Exercise.

—By DR. CLENDENING

For old and young, swimming is a joyous and splendid form of exercise. It can be used by the lame and the halt, by those whose feet are too sore or whose legs are too weak or crippled to use for walking, golf or tennis.

Natural water is best—the ocean, the lake, the river. But modern hygiene and the work of sanitary engineers have made pools safe and comfortable. The bacterial content and clearness of the water, personal cleanliness of bathers, laundering of suits, maintenance of sanitary conditions on the premises have led to great reduction in infectious diseases from bathing pools. Filtration of the water and the reduction of bacteria by ultraviolet ray or passsage of the water through ozonating machines, or the chemical treatment of the water by chlorine are themselves harmless and have practically eliminated contamination of the water as a sourse of infection of the sinuses and ears.

Other health hazards from swimming can be prevented by the application of common sense.

Chilling of the body surface is one of these.

No Warning.

The specific heat of the water is high. If you had every substance on earth collected together and experimented to find how much heat it would take to get them hot, and how long it would take to cool them off, water would just about head the list. It takes heat from the body ravenously.

That is one danger of swimming exercises. Nature's warnings — getting hot and perspiration and general discomfort — which slow us up in other sports do not appear while swimming. Then the cool environment tends to ward off fatigue until finally, suddenly collapse occurs.

Even water of the temperature of 70° F. causes a chilling shock, as can be seen from blue lips and chattering teeth. And this chilling of the body surfaces causes general changes which, as Dr. H. Marshall Taylor of Jacksonville, Fla., who has added so much to our knowledge of the hygiene of swimming, shows, reduces resistance to infection. These general body changes include a reduction in the number of white blood cornuscles in the circulating blood, contstriction of the blood vessels on the surface of the body, including the mucous membrane of the nose.

Not After Meals.

Swimming after meals — there has been no change in the hygienist's ideas that this is a bad thing. The blood goes to the interior after a meal and if there is any tendency to cramps there is proportionately more danger. The blood is only partially diverted to the muscles after a meal, and exercise in cold water imposes a demand that results in cramped muscles and obvious attendant dangers.

An Appreciated Let-Down.

Any pilot will tell you his best friend is his parachute even though he'd rather not have to use it. (Associated Newspapers.)

Time and Change

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I VISITED the old log house where I was born. It is a sorry sight. A part of rotted siding revealed the logs where chunks of wood and "daubin'" had fallen out. The low-ceilinged basement room, used for a cozy kitchen, was closed and uninhabited. I looked through a small-paned window and saw that the floor was warped and the plastering had fallen down from above. Even from outside it had a musty smell.

The room above, where I was accustomed to meet the stern face of my aged grandfather, with fear and trembling, was empty. The roof had leaked in several places, and stained the wall.

The cellar with its earthen floor, had a little sluice formed by a portion of the spring, where my aunt kept milk, cream and butter. Here many a cup of creamy, well-cooled milk was mine without the asking. Now the neatly-built wall around the spring is gone and it does not boil up in the center as I loved to watch it when a boy.

The summerhouse has fallen down. I walked upon the same flat stones my feet trod as a little lad of three or four, but only the old stone chimney stands and where the bread was baked, in the Dutch oven at the side, the sun shines in.

The old barn after a century and a half, is roofless in places. The massive hand-hewn timbers are warped and broken. The great door hangs on one hinge. The siding, loose below, swings idly in the wind, and the limestone wall is cracked and crumbling in a dozen places.

I walked up through the level meadow, the field where heavy timber stood in the olden days, the trees which, a year old widow, I loved. She was a childhood neighbor who stayed with us children sometimes, if our parents were away. Her two mountain acres are a part of the pasture now and the logs of the house are rotted and lay all about the foundation. The tall old poplar, that was a landmark beside the precious spring, crashed some weeks ago. Cattle have made a mudhole of the water that remained.

Only a rattlesnake contested my right to walk upon this sacred ground and indulge in memories. His head was poised to strike, but I heard no rattle. I quickly retreated, secured a heavy stone and struck him upon the coils so that he was crippled, and I killed him, for such a snake is dangerous, and hung his writhing body on a white oak branch.

Often when hunting mountain huckleberries my brothers and I have had a similar adventure.

FARM SURPLUS FOR RED CROSS

Possibility For Sending Waste Crop to War Zone Studied.

DES MOINES, Ia.—(U.P.)—The American Red Cross has been surveying the possibility of sending a part of the Middle West's huge farm surplus abroad to aid hungry civilians in European war zones. Farmers would be asked to turn over supplies, rather than cash donations, to the Red Cross.

Iowa farmers approached thus far have expressed a willingness to donate small supplies of grain and livestock for war relief, although only a few farm groups have been interviewed.

Corn and wheat probably would be the favored donations, although farmers might be asked especially to contribute hogs, since there is a vast pork and lard surplus and hog prices are low.

The Red Cross already has bought some of the country's farm surplus from the Commodity Credit Corporation, with export subsidies employed to make the products available to the relief agency at less than current domestic market prices.

No effort has been made to work out plans for gathering donations of farm products.

One Iowa town, Charlton, already has held an auction of products brought to town by farmers, a method used during the World war. Indications, however, are that the donations of grain or livestock will be sought to supply directly the food needs of refugees and civilians abroad.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace has said that the United States has ample food supplies both for the people of this country and for refugees in Europe.

Centenarian Had Enough of War Back There at Gettysburg.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(U.P.)—A half century ago Thomas A. Willis sold his farm and went to the "city"—Sweet Springs, Mo.—to open a general store.

At 55 he was too old to farm, he said, and would spend his declining years in the leisurely operation of the store.

But Thomas Willis' "declining years" were to amount to almost half his lifetime. Recently he celebrated his 105th birthday anniversary.

Five years ago he said he was starting on his second hundred years and began counting them that way.

"I'm five now," he said, "and the doctors tell me I'll live to be eight, at least."

Willis has no formula for longivity and admits that "I complain of my joints some." He carries a cane and says he can't walk without it, but he makes periodic trips to the corner grocery, walks home with his arms filled with packages and the cane dangling unused at his side.

He isn't very interested in Europe's new war.

"I was in one war, and that's enough for me," he said. "My brother and I fought together at Gettysburg."

CHAPTER XXXIV

Oddly enough, his very anger suddenly gave him a peculiar mental clarity, an outward calm and poise.

Comradeship between Sue and Rosemary, which had made their night's visit together so delightful, had continued this morning as they walked together to have a swim in the mountain lake.

First there had been the little episode in which the men had admired them. Any girl likes to be admired. These two girls knew they held attraction for men, and realized they were blessed with well nigh perfectly proportioned figures, even though they were not much alike. Bob had boomed at them and, Monty had blushed a little happily, and even the truck driver had been frankly impressed. There had been just enough tinge of naughtiness in the whole thing to set up girlish spirits for the day.

"Race you the last block," Rosemary challenged Sue. "It's sandy there."

"Blocks!" Sue laughed. "You're not in the city, honey."

All right, yards, then, or whatever. Come on!"

They ran, and Rosemary lost. Sue was mountain-born, mountain-reared. Her lungs were long accustomed to exertion in the thin high air, her lovely body was supple at running, and her legs were longer than her friend's.

"You . . . are . . . like a deer!" Rosemary panted at water's edge. "Gee, Susie! But maybe I can swim almost as good."

She couldn't swim as well as Sue, either, but Sue did not emphasize that. They dived from a log, shrieked loudly over the first chill of the water and then flailed wildly to get up the blood reaction that warms.

* * *

They aimed for the center of the lake. Presently they were swimming in long easy strokes, the kind of swimming which can be kept up almost indefinitely although it isn't very fast. They pulled up at a stump and clung there to rest.

"Ducking you!" Sue warned. Then—swoosh! She shoved Rosemary under.

Rosemary submerged easily, too easily. It caught Sue unprepared, for instantly Rosemary had Sue's ankles and had her own revenge!

They came up laughing at each other in high spirits. The water and the air were exhilarating. Youth and good health and gaiety were having full sway. Rosemary paused to readjust her rubber bathing cap, and then spoke.

"We'll be famished, Sue. Why didn't we bring breakfast and cook it beside the lake?"

"We'd have been cluttered up with men if we had tried. You know that. You saw how the boys were impressed!"

Rosemary laughed happily. "I feel kind of wicked, Sue. But I don't care!" She plunged off, swimming again.

"I'll bet you were a terrible vixen back home. Maybe you still are! Coming . . . out . . . here and . . . vamping all our . . . Arizona men."

They were pulling rhythmically now, side by side.

"I haven't . . . vamped . . . anybody!"

"Yes you have. . . . Every man at . . . that dance . . . The girls are . . . all jealous. . . . But they liked you a lot. . . . You and Bob were the . . . handsomest couple . . . everybody says. . . . Listen, Rosemary . . . you'll always be good . . . to Bob . . . Won't you?"

Sue said that with obvious feeling.

"Hunh?" Rosemary turned to face her, lifting her head out of the water more.

"You say you love Bob," Sue paused now, treading. "Promise me you'll always be good to him, and all. He's just bound to propose soon, and you'll be married. . . . I just . . . want . . ."

"Oh let's don't talk about men now," Rosemary begged.

Then she led off at a steady swim. Presently they were well toward the upper end of the lake and not far from the shore, so hand in hand they waded out and sat down on a grassy ledge to gaze back at the water. Instantly the air chill assailed them.

"Goodness, where's the sunshine?" Rosemary asked, missing it for the first time.

Sue glanced upward.

"Oh! . . . OH!"

Sue's cry was one of alarm and terror.

She pointed off to the left. The black billowing mass that had crept up high over the treetops was unmistakable. Sue jumped to her feet, ran a little way and back again, surveying the whole visible forest area. Her lovely face paled when she suddenly grabbed her friend's arm.

"Oh-h-h, Rosemary!" she cried out again, desperately. "I hadn't the wind kept the smell of it away from us, down close to the water! We—look, darling, you start running around the edge of the lake! I'll swim!"

"Sue!"

"Hurry, honey! My wind is better than yours, and so swimming will be faster for me. I'll take your car and go telephone for daddy and Bob. They may not even have seen it yet from where they are this morning. And Walpi will be half crazy. Scoot, now!"

Sue dived instantly into the lake again.

All at once Rosemary realized she was alone in the wilderness, and that over to the left was a crackling, roaring red hell.

Because Sue had proved herself a much stronger swimmer, Rosemary knew that Sue really could get to the trading post much quicker by swimming in a direct line, whereas she herself probably could make better time running around the longer shore route.

Neither girl, however, had considered the land roughness, nor the brush. After just a few yards of running Rosemary stepped on a sharp stick and fell. The stick was no more than an oak splinter but it jabbed deep; the wound instantly began bleeding. Ignoring it, Rosemary got up and hastened on.

Soon she encountered underbrush, something like holly. When she tried to skirt it she slipped into a spring branch and bruised her foot on stones. She remembered her beach shoes far across the lake now, near her water pump. She hadn't run barefooted this way ever before, that she could remember, and she had no idea one's feet could be so extremely tender.

In sheer desperation she managed to forget the pain. She stopped after a moment to rest. Running had taken more wind than she imagined it would, in this altitude. Perhaps she should have swum back with Sue, but no, swimming was even more exhausting.

As she sat here she heard the roaring more distinctly. It was necessary for her to run actually toward the fire in order to follow the circling lake edge. Presently she could cut back toward the trail that led uphill to the post. But the distance, which had appeared short to the eye, had been deceptive. The smoke smelled strong now and she could see it drifting over the lake like a dull sort of haze. She took a deep breath and resumed running.

After five minutes she was frantic with fear. It seemed that she had gone only a few hundred feet on the rugged terrain, and that the little dot across yonder, which was her water pump and the beginning of her trail home, was still no closer. Vines impeded her progress now. Her eyes burned.

She topped a rise in the ground and came face to face with a great black bear. When she screamed in fright the bear just plunged on, passing near her and seeming not to see her at all. The huge fellow was galloping in full flight.

* * *

In a moment came a herd of eight or ten deer which made a crashing even above the fire's noise. They almost ran over her but ignored her because of the greater menace behind. Rosemary had a sudden wild urge to flee with them, to turn and run not toward but away from the fire. She became conscious now of many smaller animals that raced before the great forest terror—rabbits and foxes and squirrels and a lot of little things she couldn't identify. Here in a bathing suit which already was torn by limbs and thorns, with scratches on her tender skin and with bleeding feet, she felt more helpless than the fleeing wild things. Smoke drove at all of them. She had to force herself to run swiftly despite any pain, in order to avoid hysteria. The fire was progressing incredibly fast.

* * *

Monty Montgomery discovered Sue first when she pulled desperately up the hill into view there on the lake trail. He ran out to meet her and took her arm.

"Where is Rosemary?" he literally yelled.

"She's . . . coming . . . all right!" She panted, pointing. "I hurried . . . to go for . . . help . . . Bob, and . . . !"

He almost had to carry the girl, who was virtually exhausted. Bob King himself ran out then and he in turn asked Sue a question, shaking her shoulders a little to make her buck up.

"Where is Rosemary? Where is Rosemary?" he demanded, repeating.

Teacher Discourages 'Crushes'

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

"The person who has had the greatest influence on my life is my English teacher, Miss Nettie W. While she has never paid any more attention to me than she has to other girls in her class, I adore her.

"When school closed I took my graduation money and sent her a gift, a lovely silver bowl. But she returned it to me, saying she was glad that I had enjoyed her classes but she could not take so valuable a present from a pupil.

"Every time I call her up I get the same word from her family, that she is either out or busy. Why won't she see me? I think of her constantly and am not interested in any of the picnics or parties that my graduating class has organized since graduation. Some of the girls laugh at me in my affection for 'Dear Teacher.' Mother has asked me to write you about it.

"STELLA."

The trouble with you, my dear Stella, is that you seem to be suffering from a "crush" on your teacher. Lots of girls have that until "Mr. Right" comes along. Such girls are probably of the type that pass up parties and boys and made good grades in school. In this very susceptible stage of emotional development, they hang their affections on "Dear Teacher."

Evidently Miss Nettie knows all about "crushes" and doesn't wish to encourage you in wasting your affections on her. Believe me, that sort of devotion is not the most sensible thing in which a young girl may indulge. Go out with the rest of the group that were graduated in your class. Go to their parties, their picnics, look for dates in the open.

Lots of girls have had crushes on their Miss Nettie. Miss Margy or Miss Jones and they've got over them. Get as much as the right sort of pep into them how. Smile and sing and in that way be good sports. In that your best chance is to become interesting to others, compliments, no less, and stop worrying over your feelings.
